

Colleague in the unit

A colleague who has been in this unit for a length of time puts the new employee through in the following ways: Induction into the unit's practices and culture and the local work environment.